I was fine until 2 or 3 days ago then I just started feeling tired. I'm not eating and today I just couldn't move my arms or legs.

Hi, I'm Owen. My doctor has just told me that I have type 2 diabetes. I'm pretty bummed about it. I hate the idea of being medicated for the rest of my life and waiting for this to kill me. I'm determined to learn how to manage this myself, but where to start?

Hi, Owen. I'm Merlin, I happened to overhear what you were saying. That is a bummer but if you're ready to learn and make changes in how you live your life maybe I can help. Interested?

Hell yes!! How do I start.

OK. Let's start by capturing some information about you. Some of this will get a little personal and some is a bit technical but it will help us to know where you are at. Ready?

OK, I'm a bit nervous about it but yeah, let's start

Great. So how old are you? ..... did your doctor tell you what your HBA1C measure was? Great that's it we're done. Now I'd like you to meet someone.

Owen, meet your virtual self. I have created him for you based on the information you gave me. You can give him a name (yours or any other name .... )

You can see I have also added a life force bar. Yours isn't looking so good.

Don't worry this is just a starting point and it's not fixed. Let's get to work and start to progress to green.

I don't feel so good!!

You are here!!

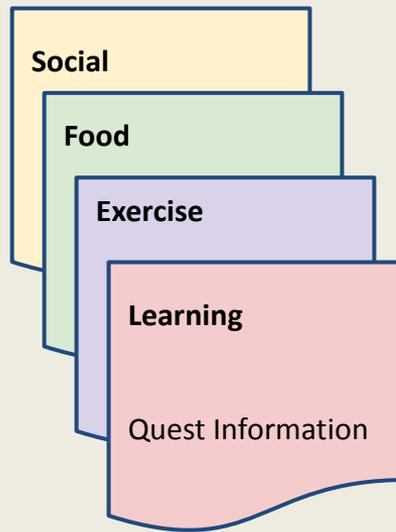

Here how it works. Your goal is to lead your avatar back to health and to create the perfect life for your avatar. To do this you need to complete a series of quests that will earn you points. You then invest your points for your avatar. There are many ways to invest your points and the choice is yours. All you need to know right now is every choice will have an impact on your avatar

OK, that sounds easy enough. I do quests, earn points and invest these points how I choose. So what type of quests can I do?

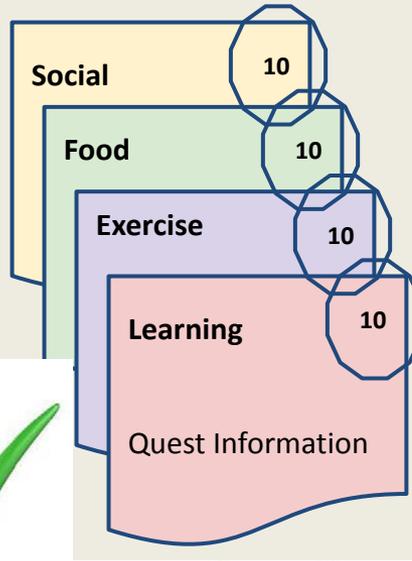

There are many different types of quests you can do. Here are some to get you started. Click on 1 and see what it says then follow through and do the quests.

Right lets have a look what options do I have? Learn about managing diabetes, exercise, diet. Umm. Let's look at the diet one .....

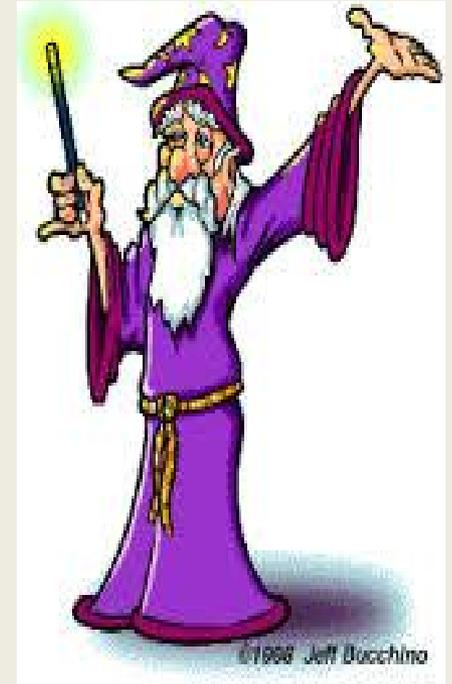

Congratulations on your first points. How would you like to use them? Here are your options ....

OK, I've done these. You know that's the first exercise I have done in years!!! Lets complete these quests and see what happens ...
